A Letter from the FTTA

It is important to have a vision of Christ in the divine administration because it gives us meaning and purpose to live this human life on the earth today. Every person goes through some kind of suffering whether it be big or small; however, realizing that Christ is on the throne administrating and arranging every situation so that we would gain Him to the uttermost is quite refreshing. It changed my entire outlook on why I had certain experiences I did in my life, and brought me to realize ultimately that these experiences weren't for me but for the building up of His body. Also, going through these sufferings and trials were exceedingly great opportunities to experience His greatness, His love, and His light, and all that He is. They became not doctrine to me but something very real. Day by day we go through our lives, and we start to see that every situation is under our feet, because we have the One who is enthroned in our spirit which causes everything to be under His feet. The more we see this, the more we will praise Him for all that He is and what He has done. This ultimately will be the praises that render Him to come back. Eventually our praises would be praises not only in our good situations, but especially in our sufferings. These praises are a true glory to God. As all His people praise Him more and praise Him corporately as His bride, He surely will have a way to come back to regain possession of the earth and marry His bride. Everything He does on the throne is so that He could come back to marry His bride, but in the process He needs to work in each of our situations so that we would be conformed to the image of His Son to gain His Body.

I wouldn't say that this term was easier than my first term, but I felt like I really was able to let the Lord have a little room to make more of His home in my heart, therefore allowing the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ to be my supply. Without opening to Him, and enjoying Him as my grace, I definitely would not have been able to make it through. As I considered my outward environments and situations, I realized that the only way to walk the Christian life is to turn to this One who has everything I need. My problems are still here, but I have the all-sufficient grace for me to live this life and to gain more of Christ, allowing Him to gain a little more in my heart. I realize that it's useless to fight against our flesh, because we in our natural man can't overcome it anyway. However, there is One in me who can, so why not open up and call His name? Taste His grace! The more I take His grace, the more I love Him, and the more I am willing to go through whatever it is so that He could completely make His home in my heart. Only by this bountiful supply can I go on in my daily living.

I appreciated also that there is nothing in our self that we can trust that can make it. I realize a lot of times I deceive myself into thinking that there is even an inch of goodness in me. However, by the Lord's great mercy especially in the training, I'm beginning to see how ugly our natural man is. I really appreciated Brother Lee's prayer concerning our self, and how we need to confess every day, multiple times a day our failure of not living Christ, not walking according to spirit. The more we do this, the more we would ask for His grace and mercy to grant us to practice to be one spirit with the Lord. The more we are one with Him, the more we will grow and be transformed for the building up of the Body of Christ. Praise the Lord there is One in this whole universe who can do this!

Much grace to ya'll,
Hannah Chumreolert (germrualert@gmail.com)
